Tips: Ensure you have updated information in your cell phone. Make copies of this page for family and friends to use in an emergency.

Emergency Preparedness Tips

If you live or work in the city of Portland or Benton, Clackamas, Clark, Columbia, Linn, Marion (northern communities), Multnomah, or Washington counties, visit www.publicalerts.org/signup to register for emergency notifications via home phone, cell phone, VOIP, text and emails.

Visit www.ready.gov for resources on all these topics.

Develop a Family Emergency Plan

Research has proven that if you plan and practice in advance, you will be more resilient in an actual disaster.

Important: review and practice the plan with your entire family twice a year (during time changes, for example).

Here are a few tips:

- Identify an out-of-state emergency contact and instruct family to check in with them during emergencies and if separated.
- Complete the information on the opposite page and share with family and friends.
- Identify evacuation routes from home and designate a nearby location to meet to make sure everyone is okay.
- Know when and how to turn off water, electricity, and gas.
- Know emergency procedures in your workplace and for your children's schools.

Assemble a Disaster Supplies Kit

Help yourself and your family remain self-sufficient during a disaster. Although putting a kit together may seem overwhelming, you can assemble a kit in small achievable steps. You may be surprised how many useful items you already have at home.

Remember to include:

- Specialty supplies for children, pets, elderly and special needs family members
- Copies of important documents, such as financial information.

Know what to do before and during Emergencies

Review hazards that can threaten your family and know how to respond.

For example:

- Know what risks are associated with common hazards
- Take protective actions, such as Drop-Cover-Hold On during an earthquake
- Receive CPR and first aid training
- Donate blood

There are many ways to help you become more resilient when disaster strikes.

See some of the links below for specific hazard information, training and volunteer opportunities.

Winter Storms

Snow and Ice

- If a storm is forecasted: ensure you have a full tank of gas in your vehicle, enough food, water, adequate clothing/blankets and heating fuel (seasoned firewood, generator, etc.) in the event of power outages or if you become isolated.
- Maintain ventilation when using kerosene heaters to avoid build-up of toxic fumes. Refuel kerosene heaters outside and keep them at least three feet from flammable objects.
- Keep snow shovels and sand to remove snow and help with traction.
- Insulate your pipes to prevent from freezing.
- If temperatures drop below freezing, prevent pipes from freezing by turning on faucets to allow a slow drip.

Wind

- Before a windstorm conduct a home safety evaluation, including garage door and nearby trees. If you have an electric garage door opener, locate the manual override.
- If you are indoors during a windstorm, move away from windows or other objects that could fall.
- If you are outdoors, move into a building and avoid downed electricity power lines, utility poles and trees.
- If you are driving, pull off the road away from trees, overpasses and powerlines.

Landslides

- Listen for unusual sounds that might indicate moving debris such as trees cracking or boulders knocking together.
- Avoid river valleys or low-lying areas.
- Be alert when driving and watch for collapsed pavement, mud or fallen rocks.

Access and Functional Needs

These tips will help during an emergency for those who need assistance to live independently.

Create a Support Team

- Have an alert tag or bracelet to identify your medical condition/allergies.
- “Buddy-up” with family or friends. Exchange contact info.
- Give team members a spare key to your residence.
- Make sure service animals know your team.
- Know the location of more than one medical facility in the area.
- Keep home medical equipment in good working order. Include copies of instruction manuals, etc. Show your team how to operate special equipment.

Make a “Go-Kit” & “Stay-Kit”

- Create a contact list that includes medical providers’ information, medication dosage and schedule, copies of insurance and Medicare cards.
- Keep one week’s supply of medications on-hand.
- Have extra magnifiers, eyeglasses, hearing-aid batteries, oxygen tanks, and notepads.

Dialysis Preparedness

- Make an emergency supply kit with personal information.
- Keep an updated medicine/allergy list at all times.
- Create an evacuation plan, and leave early.
- Give your kidney care team your emergency plan.
- Get a copy of your emergency diet.
- Plan for back-up transportation; make a list of regional dialysis facilities.
- Don’t wait before looking for services.

Earthquakes and Tsunamis

Earthquake Preparation

- Anchor or secure heavy appliances and furniture such as water heaters, refrigerators and bookcases to wall studs.
- Move pictures, mirrors and glass objects away from beds.
- Learn how to turn off water, gas and electricity.
- Keep hard-soled shoes and a flashlight under bed.

Earthquake Response

- When the ground begins to shake, “DROP, COVER, AND HOLD ON”
- If indoors, get under a sturdy table. If in bed, protect your head with a pillow.
- If outdoors, find a clear spot away from buildings and trees and stay until the shaking stops.
- If in a vehicle, pull over to a clear location until shaking stops.
- If you smell gas, leave your home and notify the gas company.
- Only turn off gas as a last resort, if you can do so safely.
- Assume downed power lines are live and STAY AWAY.
- Use phones ONLY for life-threatening emergencies.

Tsunami Response

A tsunami is a sea wave caused by an underwater earthquake or landslide displacing the ocean water.

- When at the coast, know tsunami evacuation information. Look for and follow tsunami evacuation signs.
- Once the earthquake has stopped, head inland and to higher ground. Follow tsunami evacuation signs.
- Stay put and listen to the radio for directions.
- Do not return until the alert has been cancelled and emergency officials have advised it's safe to return.

Prepare. Train. Volunteer.

Your emergency preparedness is only part of the solution. The next step is seeing how you can help others. Here are some ways to volunteer:

- Amateur Radio Emergency Service (ARES) become licensed, trained and ready to respond in an emergency when amateur radio may be a reliable method of communication.
- American Red Cross provides free emergency preparedness education, trains volunteers to respond to disasters and provides shelter, food, crisis counseling and recovery planning to disaster victims.
- Community Emergency Response Teams (CERT) are community members trained in basic emergency response skills.
- Fire Corps members provide public education and response support for local Fire/EMS departments in non-emergency capacities.
- Map Your Neighborhood (MYN) is a neighborhood-based program that encourages and teaches preparedness, hazard mitigation and priority actions in an emergency.
- Medical Reserve Corps (MRC) are health professionals who provide critical medical skills during an emergency.
- Neighborhood Watch members partner with law enforcement to reduce crime.
- SERV-OR and WAserv are state emergency registries of health professional volunteers.
- Search and Rescue (SAR) organizations provide assistance for people who are lost or injured outdoors.
- Volunteers in Police Service (VIPS) perform public education, outreach and administrative tasks so officers can respond to emergencies.
- Voluntary Organizations Active in Disaster (VOAD) are coalitions of faith-based and civic/humanitarian organizations that provide services to people after disasters.

Volcanoes and Avalanches

During a Volcanic Eruption

- Avoid areas downwind of the volcano.
- Stay indoors if possible. Close all windows, doors and dampers.
- Seal openings with plastic if possible.
- Move machinery and animals indoors.
- Avoid low-lying areas where poisonous gases are most dangerous.

After a Volcanic Eruption

- Volcanic ash consists of tiny jagged pieces of rock and glass. Ash can turn daylight into darkness and cause breathing problems, injuries and power outages, damage equipment and disable communications.
- Check radio, television or the internet for updated information.
- Cover mouth and nose with a filter mask or wet cloth.
- Wear goggles to protect eyes and keep skin covered to avoid irritation or burns.
- Stay indoors until health officials advise it is safe outside.

Avalanches

- Avalanches occur due to unstable snow conditions that may be formed when new or windblown snow overloads weak layers or because of rapid warming.
- Always check avalanche conditions before a trip.
- Consider purchasing a probe and shovel and renting a beacon (which requires specialized training).
- Most avalanches occur on steep slopes, which are prime spots for skiers and snowmobilers.
- Recognize warnings: recent avalanches, heavy snowfall in the past 24 hours, windblown snow, and significantly warmer weather.
- If buried, try to make an air pocket in front of your face and remain calm.

Animals in Disaster

Take animals with you if you need to evacuate. Only as a last resort should animals be left behind.

Create an animal disaster supply kit

- Include food, water, medications, crates, leash, collar, ID tags.
- Consider a microchip for animals in the event they are separated during a disaster.
- Take digital photos of you with each animal. Print off a copy for each animal; this will help during searching if separated, or to match you to your animal.
- A flashing collar or ID tag can help you to find a lost animal at night.

Identify shelter

Many emergency shelters cannot accept animals. Find out which hotels/shelters allow animals in the area you plan to evacuate before disaster strikes.

If you have to leave animals at home

- Leave them in a secure area inside your home. Never chain animals outside!
- Leave at least a 10-day supply of dry food and multiple containers of water.
- Use signs on doors and windows to indicate type and number of animals inside and your contact information.
- Keep identification tags updated and securely fastened to your animal's collar.

Livestock

- Handling techniques vary with each type of disaster. Research potential disasters for your area and plan how to handle livestock and where they can be sheltered.
- During a disaster, focus on immediate safety.

Fireworks and thunderstorms cause great distress to animals. Keep your pets secure and safe.

Hot weather emergencies

Heat

- Heat Cramps are often the first sign your body is overheated and dehydrated.
- Heat Exhaustion symptoms include headache, nausea, dizziness, weakness, ashen or flushed skin tone, and cool or moist skin.
- Heat Stroke is a MEDICAL EMERGENCY. Symptoms include warm, flushed skin, absence of normal sweating, very high temperature, delirium, unconsciousness or seizures. Seek medical attention immediately.
- Drink plenty of non-alcoholic fluids.
- NEVER leave people or animals in cars or other enclosed spaces with little or no air circulation. Car temperatures can rise to deadly levels quickly.

Lightning Safety

- If outdoors, avoid water, high ground, tall trees, open spaces, fences, and other metal objects.
- When possible, find shelter inside a building or fully enclosed vehicle with closed windows.
- If lightning strikes nearby while you're outside, crouch down with your feet together and place your hands over ears to minimize hearing damage. Keep a minimum of 15 feet from other people.

Water Safety

- Tell someone where you are going, when you expect to return, and where to call if you don't return on time.
- Know your limits as a swimmer.
- Rivers can run cold and swift in spring and early summer. Jumping into cold water can literally take your breath away!
- Wear a properly fitted Personal Flotation Device (PFD) when appropriate. All children 12 and younger must wear a life vest when in a boat. Know all local boating laws.
- Wear sunscreen.
- Keep an eye on children at ALL times.

Fire Safety

Debris burning is the number one cause of fires started by humans. Never burn without a permit or on a windy day. Work through the correct department that has jurisdiction over the type of burning you want to do. Consider alternatives to burning, such as chipping or recycling.

Protect Your Home from Wildfire

- Create a 30-foot non-combustible defensible space around your home. Stack firewood away from the home.
- Trim branches along driveways so that they are 14 feet off the ground, 14 feet from other surfaces and 10 feet from the roof and power lines.
- Use non-combustible roofing materials. Keep gutters free from debris and screen vents under eaves and decks.
- Keep yards watered and mowed. Plant low growing, less flammable plants near homes.
- Post your address in a location that is visible from all directions for at least 150 feet.

Prevent House Fires and Plan for Escape

- Never use water to put out a grease fire. Use baking soda, smother with a tight lid, or use an approved fire extinguisher.
- Install smoke alarms on the ceiling of every sleeping room, outside each separate sleeping area, and on every level of the home.
- Test smoke alarm batteries monthly. Replace the smoke alarm every 10 years.
- Install fire extinguishers close to an exit and only use on small fires.
- Create a Home Escape Plan including at least two routes from each room and a safe meeting place. Remember to practice this plan with your family.

Family Preparedness

September, National Preparedness Month is sponsored by FEMA and the Department of Homeland Security.

Make a Family Emergency Plan

www.ready.gov/make-a-plan

Disaster can strike anywhere at any time. Your family may not be together when it happens, so it is important to plan and practice for various scenarios.

- Know the specific hazards in your community and how to respond.
- Plan for how you will contact one another.
- Plan for how you will get back together.
- Teach children how to respond to emergencies.

Make an Emergency Kit for Home, Work and Vehicle

You may not be at home when disaster strikes, keep a kit at home, at work and in your vehicle.

Emergency kits include:

- Water, food, utensils and a can opener.
- Cell phone charger.
- Flashlight and extra batteries.
- Safety items including a whistle, flashlight, multipurpose tool, hard-soled shoes, gloves and blankets.
- First aid kit including medications, baby wipes, sanitary items, and dust masks.
- Copies of personal documents including IDs, family contacts and financial documents.

September is Back to School Month

- If your child is at home without an adult, make sure they know how to reach you or another trusted adult.
- Make sure your child knows how to respond to emergencies. Play the game to test your child's emergency preparedness:

Technology

Computers, tablets, smart phones, and social media make connecting with friends and family easier than ever before. Use these tools safely and appropriately.

Leave Phone Lines Free in a Disaster

- Resist the urge to call others if it's not an emergency.
- Staying off the phone can save a life by allowing 911 calls to go through.

Communicate in Different Ways

- Communicating with loved ones will be a high priority in a disaster, but circumstances may impact your ability to reach them.
- If phone lines are overloaded, texting may still work.
- Make sure you have alternate ways to contact everyone.

Cyber Security

- Don't access sensitive accounts like banking or online shopping on public Wi-Fi or unsecured networks. This can leave you subject to identity theft and computer viruses.
- Install apps only from trusted sites. Malicious apps can share information without your knowledge.
- Treat smart phones like a computer. Secure it with a password.
- Make sure your home network is password protected or encrypted. Refer to the instruction manual for the wireless network router.
- Lost or stolen devices can provide strangers with your personal or corporate data. Enable encryption.
- Keep security software updated.
- Think before you click, download, forward, or open anything. Beware of anything from unknown sources.

Health Preparedness

Medical Emergencies

A medical emergency is any condition that, if left untreated, may cause severe harm. Getting immediate help can mean the difference between a relatively simple cure or treatment, and a more complicated and costly intervention.

Be Prepared

Always keep extra medications, prescriptions and medical information in an emergency supply and “go” kits. During a disaster, you may have to wait days to access medications. Have 7 day supply of extra medications and copies of your medical information. Ask your doctor for this extra supply, and obtain refills a week or two before running out.

Do You Have the Flu?

“The flu” or influenza is a respiratory (lung) infection that usually spreads throughout the community during the winter or spring. This is not the same illness as “stomach flu.” Normal symptoms include fever, coughing, sore throat, runny or stuffy nose, headaches, body aches, chills and fatigue.

Seek emergency care when symptoms are extreme such as:

- Confusion or can't be woken up.
- Difficulty breathing.
- Pain or pressure in the chest or abdomen.
- Blue lips or skin rash.
- Problems drinking or keeping liquids down.
- Fever in an infant under three months old.
- Excessive irritability in children.

Flu Prevention

- Wash hands frequently, particularly before preparing food, eating and after using the bathroom.
- Cough or sneeze into the crook of your elbow rather than into hands.
- Stay home if you are sick.
- Get vaccinated for the flu.
- Learn more at www.flu.gov and www.cdc.gov.

Flooding

December 18, 1964–January 7, 1965

This record breaking flood event was a combination of heavy snow fall and freezing temperatures, followed by continuous warm moist rains over several days that caused rapid snow melt. The flood impacted Oregon, Northern California, Southwest Washington, Idaho and Nevada.

Before a Flood

- Before you buy a home, investigate if there's any history of flooding or if it's in a mapped flood hazard zone.
- Consider flood insurance, even if you live outside of a flood hazard zone.

Prepare for a Flood

- Pack an evacuation kit and create a family emergency plan.
- Ask your local emergency management agency for sandbagging information.

During a Flood

- Stay Informed. Check radio, television or online for information.
- Follow local officials' instructions.
- If a flash flood is likely, move to higher ground immediately. Do not wait for instructions to move.

If you Evacuate:

- Unplug electrical equipment, but do not touch electrical equipment if you are wet or standing in water.
- Secure your home. Close and lock doors and windows.
- Avoid walking through water. If you must, walk where the water is not moving. Use a stick to check the firmness of the ground.
- Water over roadways can hide sink holes or other dangerous conditions and lead to drowning. Turn around instead of driving through the water.
- If floodwaters rise near you and you cannot drive safely, abandon the car. Move to higher ground if you can do so safely.
- Follow recommended evacuation routes.
